1. OTHER USEFUL INFORMATION

1. Press Centers at World Cup venues will be open during competition days, generally from two hours before the first match until two hours after the final day's match. Some flexibility for journalists working in different time zones can be expected.
2. Holders of Press Accreditation ID Cards will be restricted to the designated press working areas.
3. Press Centers will be equipped with Wireless LAN (801.11b standard) transmission facilities to access to the Internet through Wireless LAN. Laptops equipped with Wireless LAN transmitter/receiver cards or a personal computer (PC) with wireless LAN transmitter/receiver can be connected to this system.
4. LAN cabled connections are also envisaged. Please be sure to bring the necessary LAN cables with you and ensure that your laptop has the appropriate software .
5. Each Press Center will have several personal computers (PCs) so that working journalists can access the Internet. If you wish to send emails, you will need a WEB-MAIL address. Internet access can also be made using personal laptops. Computers in the press center room will have Japanese software and keyboards capable of also writing in English script, however journalists will find it easier to bring their own laptops.
6. Private telephones can be ordered (normal or ASDL) if a dedicated line is necessary either in the press working room or at the courtside seating. For this service, please complete the equipment request form and return together with your press accreditation form to Head office of World Cup Volleyball 2003 before 15th of October. Telephone contracts will be made directly with the designated telephone company however the World Cup Volleyball 2003 Organizing Committee will assist you by introducing the appointed contractors to you.
7. Mobile telephones in Japan operate on a different system. It is possible to hire Japanese compatible mobile phones and World Cup organizers will provide information on the cost and availability of these phones before the event.
